FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 1, 1881.

Senator Blair has followed the exem, la of Sinator Dawes, and written a letter, advising tie republicans of Virginia to abandon their cr. gin zition and subordinate themsilves to the Mahonites. And it seems from the date of his letter that he wrote it after he hid consulted with the Prisident and several members of his Cabinet, found that they were of the same mind, as tited several dayingo in curWashing on correspondence. That both Mr. Dawes and Mr. Blair are utterly ignorant of Virginia affairs is demonstrated by their letters, but they are no less isnorant of that si'ject than nearly all the people they represent. Indeed, as Senator Bin, Hill says, it seems impossible for a Northern man to entertain a correct idea of the South. and Southern people have long sizes abandoned the fatile attempt to make themselves properly understood by those they would fain call their trothers in the Nor.h. Mr. Dawes ad. of the State, under the present rate, being am wises the Virginia republicans to support the rly sufficient to pry the interest on the debt Mahone movement in order to obtain judges when properly refunded. It should also recwho will mere out justice to themselves, and commend the facing of both the parl r and the Mr. Blair tells them to do so because that delar in new bonds, at rates of interest ranging movement will give a free ballot, an honest from 3 to 5 per cent as may be agreed upon ty count and an upright judge and an impartial the State and her creditors, and not without jury of their piers, and the common schools to the whole people. Now such talk, while it may It should also provide for buying as mary of the stimulate contributions in the North to the Mahone election fund, is the veriest gibble to everybody at all familiar with the true condition of Virginia offsirs, for all such know that the negroes, Mahonites and republicans j.iord away, and that the regular democratic ticket forces in the last Legislature, and turned out will be successful at the fall cle ion. the democratic judges and put Mahorites in their places; that these new judges appoint the officers who chadnet elections, and that the democracts anticipated by several years the them, he had slways been and was new in favor time prescribed by the Underwood constitution for them to educate the negroes and bear the entire expense thereof. There isn't a republiom in Virginia, nativo er settler, who doesn't know that if the judges of the State are not what they should be, and that some of them are not is shown by the 'lizad' judge, it isn't the fault of the democrats, because they voted against nearly every one of them, and that correspondent that he has been transferred and tion coin. elections are as free and as honest in Virginia as in Massichusetts, and that the privileges of often that Southern men interfere with the affairs of other States than their own, but when annunced at the Interior Department this they do they invariably have the sense and take afternoon. declared his intention of joining the radicals, will redound to their advantage. the republican Senators were confident in their assertions that when all the vacancies in the Senate were filled there would be a tie vote which the Vice President would decide. This showed that there was a thorough understand. | land. ing between the General and themselv.s. and that they knew about what they were talking. It is more than possible that the same complete understanding now exists between the Mahonites and the most it fluential leaders of the republican party in Virginia, and the assertions, therefore, of the former that there will be but two tickets in the field next fall should be re. ceived with credetee. This, however, is so much the better for the democrate, for federal were in favor of capital punishment for the patronage has a'ways been a radical boomerarg in Virginia, and Lut few democrats except office seekers will remain with the Mahonites when they find themselves associated with all their o'd enemies, and or posed to all their old tenants paid their rent and were not molested.

"The figances of the country shall suffer no detriment during my administration." So spoke the President on the 4.h of last Maich. He now says, the people of Virginia, which, according to dicisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, has never ceased to be a part of the equatry, shall repudiate thirteen millions of their just debt. The President is a variable genia. He also said that he would clasp the hand of no unrepentant rebel, and yet only a short time thereafter was twicing heart strings with General Mahore and adorning his love with the choicest flowers culled from the conservatories of the White House, though the General said he had no sins to contess and no regrets to make for the part he had played in the war. But consistency has no bruads for genius, especially if it be of the radical order.
